Invitation from François BRELLE

AFEID President
Vice-President of ICID

On behalf of the French Association for Water, Irrigation and Drainage and our partners, I am very happy to welcome you to Montpellier from October 11 to 16, to assist at the 26th ICID Euro Mediterranean regional Conference and the 66th ICID International Executive Council. This event titled « Innovate to improve irrigation performance » will be a great moment to exchange experiences with a wide community of irrigation experts and professionals, decision-makers, researchers, engineers and funders.

During the three days of the conference you will have the opportunity to attend thematic sessions presenting the best international contributions on drip irrigation for water saving, on potential for wastewater use in agriculture, and on governance issues for groundwater use in agriculture. Numerous side events - workshops, round table discussions, and technical visits - will be held throughout the week in order to exchange and to enrich experiences between irrigation experts during multiple meetings. Companies working on irrigation issues in France and abroad will have the opportunity to present their knowledge and products in the 240 m² exhibition hall.

The South of France, and the Mediterranean region in particular, has a very long tradition in water management, and especially in irrigation issues. Montpellier and Languedoc are proud of their rich heritage of ancient hydraulic structures. It is also a place of concentration of scientific and technical research, of innovations and a worldwide reputation in agronomy and water sciences.

Irrigation associations and Regional Development Companies, le Canal de Provence, le Bas Rhône Languedoc, and les Coteaux de Gascogne, as well as research institutes, are pleased to welcome you and to share the experience by sharing their heritage, their expertise and their projects.

Dear colleagues and friends around the world! Welcome to our beautiful city of Montpellier, at the heart of Languedoc and Mediterranean region. We are looking forward to seeing you and we hope that your stay will be a little longer.
